Students, teachers share

By Garnet Pigden

Ninety-one students and 16 teachers shared in this year's leadership program held at the Ontario Forest Technical School in Dorset. The theme of this sixth annual Dorset workshop was "Team Building." These annual workshops are designed to help students improve their leadership and skills. At the conference, students experienced an informal atmosphere that enabled them to lose their shyness and communicate freely with teachers as well as other students.

The workshops were planned and conducted by two experienced leaders from the ministry of education and two CHSS staff members. Other teachers present acted as resource people to assist students in the seminar discussions.

The emphasis at this conference was on working in groups and developing leadership within the students that would benefit them during their high school years and after graduation.

During this conference, held from November 14 to 16, six sessions of 2½ to three hours in length were presented to the students. The material in these sessions provided students with a variety of new concepts and exercises to develop a practical working plan to carry out back concepts and exercises to develop practical working plan to carry out back home in Centre Hastings Secondary School One group is already considering some exciting possibilities.

Receive extra $

Ontario's colleges, universities and community colleges will receive an extra $109 million for the 1975-76 academic year said James Auld, minister of colleges and universities.

Auld told the legislature that operating support to colleges of applied arts and technology will be increased by approximately 15.4 per cent to $200 million from $1.73 million.

The university system will receive a total of $568 million in operating funds, an increase of 16.9 per cent over this year's $486 million. Social and recreational activities rounded out the program. Students returned home enthusiastic and eager to use their new skills in their own activities and in the life of the school

Conferences of this type provide an opportunity for students to experience meaningful leadership training during a long weekend away from school. It remains to be seen if the delegates to this year's workshop will cultivate the knowledge they have obtained.

The students and teachers who attended the conference have a responsibility to use the new concepts and lines of thought by creating concrete methods of increasing

House spirit and participation.

The future of the House system lies in the hands of those who attended Dorset. Hopefully they will develop practical applications of the skills which they have

This season Madoc will not have a Senior or Intermediate hockey team. It is well known that hockey is responsible for most of the revenue at the rink and without a team, the Kiwanis Club which operates the rink, finds itself in a financial dilemma. It costs about $800.00 each season to operate the rink, which includes lighting, fuel caretaking, etc. After careful consideration, the club has decided to open the rink for skating and is asking the public to assist the financing.

The Cobourg Invitational Wrestling Tournament was held at Cobourg East High School on Saturday, Nov. 30. Ten wrestlers particiapted from CHSS. Out of the 13 wrestling teams competing in the tournament, the Centurion grapplers placed sixth.

This was the first competition of the season and many of the members on our team were just beginning to get back into shape and to become knowledgeable of forgotten wrestling techniques.

On December 7, some of our grapplers will be competing at the Queen's University Invitational Tournament in Kingston.

At the Cobourg Tournament, Mike Young, a novice wrestler, astonished everyone by placing an impressive second in the 98 lb wieght division. He won his first two matches but was defeated in the finals. He should have a very successful year against the competition from the Quinte area.

Mr. Bob Pesowsky, the coach of the wrestling team and former wrestler said his team "fought well on Saturday and all members look promising. They are very keen competitors and we can expect good results at future competitions to be held in Montreal, Kingston and Pembroke. Not only are victories assured at these tournaments, but we should also prove triumphant in the Bay of Quinte League. "On Saturday, Dec. 14, we shall be wrestling at Quinte Secondary School in the First Belleville Firemens' Invitational Tournament. We can look forward to this competition with high expectations and should produce a number of champions."

When you're out looking for a high performance snowmobile, don't be taken in by size.

Most people think high performance snowmobiles are big. Simply because most of them are. But with the SS, we took a different approach. We made it compact. There are certain advantages inherent in a compact snowmobile. First of all, it's easier to handle on a tight trail. But more important, it's light. And lightness is essential when you're after performance.

It doesn't take a lot of money to get a lot out of winter

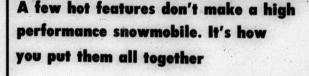

Dollar for dollar, Elan is a lot of sled. Because Ski-Doo put a lot into it.

A tough reliable Rotax engine. An endless rubber track reinforced with flexible embedded rods. A comfortable 3-layer foam sandwich seat. Easy access controls. Tinted windshield. And a full one year warranty. There are 5 Elan models, from the economy 250 single cylinder (with choice of electric start to the 250 twin deluxe and the hot T294SS: five ways to get a lot of fun out of winter for a little bit of money.

Finding a snowmobile that'll stand up to winter year after year, is no trouble at all

The machine you're looking for has been around for a long time. It's called Olympique. And of the million snowmobiles Ski-Doo has made, it accounts for about one

That adds up to a lot of Olympique sled. And a lot of experience at making them reliable.

Take the all-new T'NT from Ski-Doo, We've got the engines: 3 big twins by Rotax that really crank it out. But, instead of just worrying about the performance you need to worrying about the performance you need to get you moving, we also worry about the reliability you need to keep you moving. There are a lot of snowmobiles around with big, fast engines, slide suspension systems and sleek, racy styling.

And there are a lot of snowmobile buyers who think that's all you need to make a high performance machine. But, there's more to it than that.

This winter, go places you couldn't go before on a snowmobile.

Until now most snowmobiles couldn't take you everywhere you wanted to go. This winter there's one that will.
The new T'NT Everest by Ski-Doo. Now you're free to take the rough with the smooth take the rough with the smooth, take the powdered snow or the take the powdered show of the icy trail.

It's a full 16½" wide. And an extra 5" long. With 1247 square inches of rubber on the snow, and a light, steel-reinforced aluminum frame. Everest keeps ground pressure down to a 1-3 of a pound per square inch.

Ontario great winter playground

Ontario is an immense and sculptured land. Once covered by gigantic grinding glaciers, it was left pitted with a quarter-million lakes, and more rivers than nan has ever counted.

For six months of the year this wild and

For six months of the year this wild and beautiful land lies buried in the snow. And this is the inviting condition that makes Ontario the winter enthusiasts' paradise. Wherever you go in the province from about November/December to March/April you'll find snow-and people making the most of it.

For instance, you might elect to spend your winter holiday close to one of our large urban centres. Toronto perhaps, a city of two million.

You then find yourself drawn into the vortex of all that makes great northern cities great. Live theatre, massive shopping centres, entertainment of every kind, a thriving business community-and the strong pulse of sheer vitality.

Even so you'd be only a few miles away from where the winter funlands begin-and they continue on and on to places in the they continue on and on to places in the North so remote that you'd not see another person for days on end.

It's in between these two extremes that the greatest winter playground of all lies. If you ski, you'll find Ontario's slopes, runs and trail skiing just about as fine and testing as you could wish. You'll also find modern ski facilities. Ski and chair lifts, ski shops, rental facilities, snow-making equipment in many places, instruction by ski professionals-and apres-ski life at its most attractive.

PHONE 337-5533

Snowmobile enthusiasts, expert or beginners, will understand that this is the land of its birth. Where better to test one's Snowmobile trails have been cut through miles and miles of rugged bush, and across frozen lakes and rivers that have never heard the sound of such a machine. There are race courses, too, and servicing. storing and rental facilities.

But really, it all depends on what you want to do. If you like ski-jumping, we've want to do. If you like ski-jumping, we've got the jumps. And the campsites for winter camping and cooking out. Even winter survival courses. We've got horseback riding in the snow, and bob-sledding, tobogganing, and horsedrawn sleighs. To those you can add ice-fishing, curling, swimming in heated outdoor pools, and steam and sauna baths. You can also enjoy the many colourful You can also enjoy the many colourful winter canivals, competitions, meets and bonspiels-just watching or joining in, depending on your preference.

Best of all: wherever you choose to go you are certain to find really excellent accommodations. Splendid lodges, fine hotels, motels, chalets and cottages-most hotels, motels, chalets and cottages-most food licensed for liquor and offering good food at sensible prices. Many offer enter-tainment and some cater particularly to conventions, private parties, business meetings, banquets, and the like.

Ontario is yours to visit and enjoy this winter. And we'll be there with you. Come and join us. You'll love it.

COE HILL, ONT.

"Think snow" and "snow go"

"Think snow" and "snow go" are phrases common to everyone who is interested in outdoor activities at this time of year. Snowmobilers are looking over their machines and gear to ensure readiness at the drop of the first white flake.

While you are waiting for the snow the Ontario Safety League suggests the clearance of trails before snow drifts impede the removal of hidden obstructions and the marking of trails for safe operation. Both activities move along more efficiently and with greater effect if done while the ground is dry and fallen tree limbs are visible.

Recognizing that to operate a snowmobile safely, a snowmobiler must know where he is going, the Ontario Safety League developed colorful trailmarkers that really identify the trail Marked (Trailly is going, the Ontario Safety League developed colorful trailmarkers that readily identify the trail. Marked "Trail", "Danger", "Prohibited", along with directional arrows and ligh-reflective tape for night operating. The trailmarkers are reasonably priced for economical trail marking. This snowmobile safety program is now being used throughout the province by snowmobile clubs, winter resorts and government agencies. For many Ontario outdoor sportsmen, "travelling light" is a constant concern. Thanks to foil cooking, this need not mean that eating must be a bland affair. Only a little advance planning and a lot of heavy duty aluminum foil are required. Most anything can be prepared by wrapping it loosely, sealing the edges and placing it on a bed of hot hardwood coals. Foil can be used to "pan-fry" eggs, bacon or other meats by fabricating a frying pan using a Y-shaped twig.

Even bread and buns can be made by twisting the batter over a buttered stick and wrapping them loosely in foil, by the fire, to keep the batch warm.

A hearty meal that can be prepared in advance for cooking on an outing is the 'trial pack.' It's a single package containing a good-sized ground beef patty over a slice of onion, and topped with a slab of butter, carrot chips or other similar vegetable. The wrapping should be loose enough to permit the melted buter to circulate. But always ensure that edges are well sealed. well sealed.

A succulent dessert can be prepared by coring an apple, not quite through the bottom, placing a generous supply of raisins and brown sugar in the hollow and wrapping like a Halloween treat. A connoisseur might want to add cinnamon. To avoid any disappointments, check and remember cooking times for various foods and plan the cooking so the entire meal is ready at once.

Virtually anything can be prepared over a camp fire either by wrapping it to broil or cook or constructing a reflector oven to bake. Wrapped chicken is a favorite, as

Batching fun

By BILL SMILEY

ONE of my real pleasures in life is "batching it." I've just been through ten days of it, and have another stretch coming up. I look back on the one with nostalgia, and forward to the other with anticipation.

There are a lot of men who go around with a long face when their wife is going to be away for a spell, and they'll have to look after themselves. Some of them would literally starve to death if there were no restaurants. Others actually "miss" their wives constant babble.

And there are a lot of women who are convinced that their poor weaklings of husbands will be hard done by if they leave them to fend for themselves for a few days. There are also a lot of women who are convinced that their husbands are going to miss their presence dreadfully. Both convictions are erroneous, in my case.

I love my wife, but oh, you are erroneous, in my case.

I love my wife, but oh, you happy, carefree days of batching it. I feel the way I used to, about nine years old, when school is letting out in June.

For one thing, there's no teacher at me all the time, trying to make me behave, clean up after me, and learn something new, all at once. This is hard work, and I'm lazy.

Nope, when I put the old battleaxe on the bus, or see the car drive off, I try to look mournful, and wave a look mournful, then I give look mourniui, and wave a fervent goodbye, then I give a great sigh of relief, and feel like a fellow who has just walked out the jailhouse gates.

I'm not saying that mar riage is synonymous with prison, though it is a life sentence. I'm just saying that it's nice to get a weekend pass once in a while, for good behaviour.

First thing I do when the old girl disappears over the horizon is kick my shoes off, settle down in a comfortable chair with a beer and the evening papers. I read it through with quiet enjoyment, no interruptions.

enjoyment, no interruptions.

Nobody relating how she changed the beds, did two washings, called the plumber. Nobody wanting to talk about decorating the spare room. Nobody telling me I had to go over the bills with her. No, just me and the paper. I read front page, editorials, columns, sports and entertainment. Normally, I never get past the front page.

Normally, I never get past the front page.

Nobody saying, "Dinner's nearly ready don't open another beer which would you like canned peas or frozen spinach." I have my dinner when I jolly well feel like it. Maybe nine p.m., or ten.

And when I do, it's a gourmet spread. Unlike some of mose snivelling wretches who can't boil a cup of water without spoiling the flavour, I was brought up in a large family, and was a pretty good, rough cook when I married. A far better cook than the bride, I might add, sotto

And since then, I've filed And since then, I've filed off a number of the rough edges, and can turn out a good meal. Chops and sausage, bacon and eggs are child's play, along with steak. I can turn out a creditable turkey, ham, roast of beef. I can make stuffing, bake a fish.

marriages.

Nor am I one of those fancy-dans who fool around covering the essential blandness of their cooking with a lot of spices and sauces.

I'm more apt to turn out a nice mixed grill: bacon, a small fresh lamb chop, a sausage or two, a bit of liver, and a gram or two of kidney. If they're not on hand, I get the latter two items out of a can of cat food. It has a distinct, unique flavour.

When all is sizzling a la perfection, as we say, I carefully put the meat on a paper towel, and fry two large slices of golden-brown bread in the drippings. I top these with tomatoes and melting cheese. By this time my stomach can scarcely stand the aromas mingling.

ly stand the aromas mingling.

Then I put the whole works into the cat's dish, open the refrigerator, take out a frozen chicken pie, heat it, and eat it, garnished with a sprig of cabbage. The cat and I are both happy.

By this time, it's 11.30 p.m., so I watch a late movie or two, with no one saying, "Isn't it time for bed?" I climb into bed at 3.30, read for an hour, and sleep until 7 a.m.

Every time my wife comes home and I've been batching it, she is appalled by my appearance. "Your eyes look like two burned holes in a blanket." They do, but I've enjoyed every burn.
Then the inevitable question: "Did you miss me?" Hah! Miss her my foot. I didn't miss her any more than I would my teeth, or my right arm.

Baby bonus and taxes

Although this year, for the first time in 28 years. Government family allowance payments became taxable, from a tax point of view all Canadian families with children 18 should be better off than they were before.

Next year, when the time comes to file k1974 income tax returns, the parent who is claiming children as dependants must deduct the amount of taxable family allowance payments from his or her claim for personal exemptions.

Since a child may be claimed as a dependant for income tax purposed by either his mother or father, information slips will be issued by Health and Welfare Canada to the recipient of the family allowance. (A similar information slip will be issued by the Province of Quebec for the family allowance payments it is making for a child who has reached the age of 16.) The slips will show the total family benefits slips will show the total family benefits paid in the year which must be included as income. If the father claims the child as a dependant, he must include in his income allowances paid on behalf of the child although these allowances have been paid directly to his wife.

When more than one taxpayer has claimed a portion of the total personal exemption allowed for a child, the Income Tax Act requires each taxpayer to include in computing his income a portion of the in computing his income a portion of the allowances paid for that child. (This could happen, for instance, when parents separate during the year, in the case of death of one parent, or where the husband and wife file separate returns.)

There is a formula for working this out. Instructions may be obtained from the local Districk Taxation Office.

The family allowance legislation gives the provinces the right to vary the size of the allowances on the basis of a child's age or the number of children in a family, or both. the number of children in a family, or both. Seven of the 10 provinces have opted to pay a flat $20. per child each month; the remaining three have established separate plans. Eligible families in Newfoundland, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Ontario, Manitoba, British Columbia and Saskatchewan receive the flat rate. Prince Edward Island and Quebec have geared their programs to family size, and Alberta's is based on the age of the children involved. children involved.

Income from invested family allowances

Effective from the beginning of 1974, when a family allowance is deposited in a bank account in the name of a child, or in trust, or otherwise invested in the child's name and the investment can be readily identified as the property of the child, any income earned from it is considered income of the child.

When the allowance is deposited in a parent's personal bank account or in a joint bank account of the parents, any interest income resulting will be included in the income of the parent or parents. TORONTO -- Starting December 2nd, owners of passenger cars and trailers will be able to obtain their 1975 renewal stickers at any of the 296 licence issuing offices throughout the Province, the Ministry of Transportation and Communications announced today.

This year the validation stickers for passenger cars will be green in colour and those for trailers will be black. Fees are the same as for 2974: $23 for a 4-cylinder vehicle; $32 for 6-cylinders: $40 for an 8-cylinder car and $5 for trailers.

This is the second year of the multi-year permit and sticker renewal system.

With a view to speeding up service in the licence issuing offices, simplified renewal application forms containing an insurance declaration have been distributed ahead of time to all provincial L.C.B.O. retail outlets as well as all licence issuing offices. This is to encourage motorists to fill the forms out before going to the licence bureau.

Applicants need just present the licence issuer the completed form, together with their multi-year permit and fee. The validated permit will be returned together with a validation device that the applicant will be instructed to attach to the rear plate of his vehicle on top of last year's sticker.

ONE FOOT IN THE FURROW Why do farmers get short end?

By BOB TROTTER

Perhaps it's because they work with manure and are not afraid to get it on their boots.

Maybe the general public simply associates farming with manure and nothing else.

Is that the reason the farmer always seems to get the end of the stick with the manure on it?

Marketing boards are being blasted by the consumers association. J.D. Forbes, author of that scandalous report on marketing boards, added fuel to the flames when he said price increases at the farm gate will not solve the farm income problem. He suggested that, in order to raise farm wages to a comparable level with those in other sectors of the economy, there must be fewer farms.

He said marketing boards were a ripoff because no consumer representatives were on those boards. Now, I ask you, do labor unions have industrialists on their executives? Does the teachers federation in your county have a non-affiliated taxpayer on its executive? Does the civil service association have a government minister on its bargaining committee?

committee?

If marketing boards were such a ripoff, why would so many farmers be going broke? Why would the average age of the Canadian farmer be 52? Why would young people be leaving the farm in droves?

That man Forbes should have been muzzled before he started his stupid survey. He was known as being against marketing boards before he was appointed. He was the judge and jury and convicted the farmer before the case ever went to court.

o court. It is this irresponsibility that is beginning to gall all farm-

It is this irresponsibility that is beginning to gall all farmers in this province.

Another case in point is the vandalism that took place at International Harvester a few weeks ago. Badly needed parts can't be shipped out from the strikebound plant because some members of the union ripped out a spur line. Farmers were hard-pressed this fall with early and heavy frosts. They couldn't get corn harvested. That which was harvested has a high moisture content.

Hundreds of farmers were set further back because they couldn't get spare parts. Now, when the shortage causes higher prices, who will get blamed? Not the irresponsible union members; I'll wager. The poor old farmer will again get it in the ear.

The same story is true of the elderly couple who live a mile north of Renfrew. They have had their property — 94 acres, house and barn — taken away from them for a Highway 417 hypoge.

mile north of Renfrew. They have had their property — 94 acres, house and barn—taken away from them for a Highway 417 bypass.

"Don't waste your money on lawyers," they were told. "The road's going through and that's going to be it."

They fought and it cost them $4,000 in legal fees through three court actions.

I suspect that most country people are getting tired of losing. They are getting tired of the increasing lawlesness which allows strikers to blatantly destroy property, tired of fire departments going on strike and allowing a small fire to destroy an entire block.

And they are getting tired of teachers who are not supposed to strike doing exactly that.

Recently, the Supreme Court of Canada awarded a trespassing snowmobiler $30,000 when he injured himself on mining property. The ruling had great implications for farmers. Fence lines have been cut, winter wheat trampled and livestock injured by unthinking city people seeking recreation in rural areas.

It was heart-warming to see the provincial government take immediate action after the Supreme Court ruling. Ontario Resources Minister Allan Grossman announced amendments to the Motorized Snow Vehicles Act which will protect farmers from prosecution by trespassing snowmobilers.

If the province hadn't acted quickly, the harrassed farmers would have had a spate of claims coming at them this winter.

It's difficult enough trying to make a living as a farmer

It's difficult enough trying to make a living as a farmer these days without fighting meatheads from the cities who don't know enough to get permission to drive over private

Junior girls finish all even

The Junior Girl's Basketball Team has rounded out an enjoyable season with five wins and five losses in the league games. The members' strong efforts during the season enabled them to earn the right to participate in the Bay of Quinte Championsnips At the championships the girls faced stiff competition and lost out to Brighton High School by just five baskets.

Although the girls failed to be victorious at the tournament, they should be commended for their excellent play, enthusiasm and good sportsmanship displayed at the tournament and throughout the season. Mrs. Mabo deserves recognition for contributing her time and effort towards making this year's basketball season a success.

Boys teams open with triple pin

On Dec.5 our Midget, Junior, and Senior Boy's Basketball Teams travelled to Picton Collegiate to do battle against the representatives of Prince Edward County. The Midget Boy's Team coached by Mr. Dave Sellers started the season off on a winning note by downing Picton 49-35. Likewise, the Junior Team coached by Mr.

Ron Hotchkiss defeated the Picton Juniors by a close score of 54-49. Coached by Mr. Peter Mewett, the Senior Centurions edged their competition from PCIVS by a score of 47-41. The school is very proud of this triple victory and hopes to hear of more triumphs in the future.

TODAY'S CHILD

BY HELEN ALLEN

THE TORONTO SUN SYNDICATE

Greg is full of questions about adoption because this 10-yearold hopes very much it will happen for him.

Irish and English in descent, Greg has brown hair, blue-grey eyes and a sprinkling of freckles. He has always been physically healthy but an unsettled period in his life caused some emotional problems. These are behind him now, except that he tends to be tense and easily distracted in school. Greg is in a special Grade Four class. He has the ability to manage in a regular classroom but needs individual encouragement and firm controls.

Greg likes swimming, skating and wrestling but is not keen on team sports. He wants to learn to play the guitar.

A friendly, trusting boy, Greg gets on well with both adults and children. It will be good if he can be the youngest in a family with older brothers and/or sisters.

To inquire about adopting Greg, please write to Today's Child,
Ministry of Community and Social Services, Box 888, Station K, Toronto M4P 2H2. For general adoption information, consult your local Children's Aid Society.

Enlarge prospects for new capital

Ontario Treasurer John White said a 12-day mission to the Arab countries has enlarged prospects for the province in the search for new capital.

On his first appearance in the Legislature after the trip, White was asked by Stephen Lewis, leader of the New Democratic Party, to explain what was accomplished in talks with the Arabs.

"We learned how the financial markets work in the area of petrodollars and which financial institutions can be utilized in capital transactions in that area," White siad.

Discussions in London, Kuwait, Dubai, Saudi Arabia and other centres also centred on the exchange of Ontario technology in return for capital investments by the oil-rich countries.

Fatal accident June 30, Toronto man fined $300

A Toronto man involved in a single-car accident June 30 in which one man died, was fined $300 Friday after being convicted on a charge of careless driving. Giancarlo Cesaroni, 43 Lawnside Dr. was the driver of a 1973 Corvette that failed to negotiate a turn on County Road 50, left the road and came to rest in a field. A passenger in the car, Eric Dunkley, Healey Falls, was later pronounced dead on arrival at hospital.

Constable William Bruins, the investigating officer from the Campbellford detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police, testified that, on his arrival at the scene of the accident, he had found one person lying in a ditch, 77 feet from the vehicle.

person lying in a ditch, 77 feet from the vehicle.

He said that, at the time of the accident, no one had identified themselves as the driver of the car.

In tracing the path of the vehicle, Constable Bruins said it had been south bound on the road, failed to make the right-hand turn, left the pavement and plunged four to five feet down into a farmer's field.

He said the car had bounced three times before rolling over several times. In answer to a question from the defence attorney, he said he felt excessive speed had been a cause of the accident. Provincial Corporal Joseph Bird also attended the scene of the accident and testified he had later received a telephone call from a man identifying himself as Giancarlo Cesaroni.

Cesaroni, he said, had stated he couldn't remember anything about the accident itself, but did know that he had been driving the car earlier in the evening.

In his closing argument, the defence attorney claimed there was no way of proving that the man on the phone was in Judge A. Wills, substituting for Judge Runciman disagreed with the argument. His statement was echoed by Crown Attorney Bonneycastle who stated that, when a man identifies himself to police by phone, it is "reasonable" to conclude that it is, in fact, that man.

Tips

Working with plywood can be a problem, especially when cutting it.
You want to protect the good side of the plywood. To do this, remember that the point of each saw tooth must enter the wood on the surface that will be exposed, the surface you want to leave in good condition.

Using a hand saw or a table saw, keep the good face down.
If you lay out a pattern on the plywood, keep this in mind when you do it and trace the pattern on the proper side, depending on what kind of a saw you are going to use.

The deaths of scores of birds, reptiles and animals killed by poachers, overly-ambitious hunters, traffic and other mishaps every year may not be entirely in Conservation officers with the ministry of natural resources in eastern Ontario have been finding uses for the carcasses that range from historical research to, in the case of freshly-killed deer and moose, providing elderly citizens with a dinner of prime version.

Near Ottawa, a mallard duck that has been seized today could very well be a clue to the location and eating habits of an Indian village that flourished two hundred years, ago.

Conservation officers have turned over approximately 125 carcasses in the past year to Ann Rick, head of the Zooarchaeology Research Centre, one of the sections of the National Museum of Natural Sciences.

At the centre, a reconverted warehouse beside the capital's busy Queensway, butchered carcasses are placed in a steel vault where a resident colony of Dermestid beetles strip the bones of all meat.

The bones are then given a final cleaning, numbered, sprayed with a light coating of clear plastic and stored in cabinets. They become the "reference library" used to identify the thousands of pieces of other bone fragments sent in from archaeological digs all over Canada.

Those fragments are important evidence. Recently, bones identified at the centre as belonging to a willow ptarmigan helped pinpoint the location of a fur trade post that was active near Lake Athabask in the 1800's.

Tiny bone fragments that are extremely difficult to identify can usually be traced down by careful comparison with skeletons in the Ottawa collection.

Further analysis may also reveal the animal was butchered, the bone was used as an implement, or that a particular disease was active at the time. Skeletons of migratory wildlife may also determine the season certain events took place -- an invaluable part of any archaeological jig-saw puzzle.

At the moment Ottawa area conservation

At the moment Ottawa area conservation officers are saving the carcasses of a bittern, bluejay, pileated woodpecker, gallinule, hairy woodpecker, mallard, blue-winged teal, two wood ducks, a hooded merganser and a saw-whet owl for the research carte. Several carcasses being kept as evidence will be turned over following court proceedings.

Besides the national museum, many carcasses are taken to the veterinary lab at Conservation officers in eastern Ontario have also turned over deer and moose carcasses to a local rehabilitation centre for alcoholics, local hospitals and a number of homes for senior citizens.

The animals, victims of poachers or traffic, are donated only if the meat is in excellent condition. The meat is further checked by dietitians on staff at the

Make sure your family isn't one of those left homeless because of a Christmas tree

Make sure your family isn't one of those left homeless because of a Christmas tree fire this year.

"Your tree will probably be cut at least a month before you buy it," says Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food horticulturist, J.K. Hughes. "It will dry even before you set it up. So, don't let your children persuade you to bring it in early and leave it in late. The longer you keep it inside, the more dried out it will get and the more of a fire hazard it will become." Regular watering will keep the tree fragrant and green and will help prevent it from drying out quickly. Check its water supply every day, especially during the first few days in the house.

If your tree is frozen when you bring it in, let it thaw at least half an hour before decorating it. This will prevent its needles from falling as quickly.

Check electric lights for short circuits before hanging them on the tree and keep trimmings that might ignite easily away from them. Keep the lights on for only short periods, and be sure to switch them off whenever you are leaving the house.

Growing concern for the quality of Canadian life will also dominate policy discussions. There will be questions of land use: how much land questions of land use: how much land should be devoted to park use, how much land should we allow for urban development and highway and utility corridors? Mr. Deline, along with other candidates, Joseph Ash, Gibson Bailey and Maurice Goulah, sat in the office of village clerk-treasurer, and returning officer, Tom Burnside to await the results.

The first word they received was from the old town hall, where a couple of candidate representatives, Mrs. Warren Hill and Mrs. Lavern Carman, had been on hand.

They came into the clerk's office, and turned over an unofficial tally of the A and B polls that had been attending.

He did - winning both polls at the Orange Hall. The combined vote there gave him 105 votes to Mr. Deline's 63, and cut Mr. Deline's lead over Mr. Ash to a mere 8 votes with the advance poll still to come.

/ Try these Yule recipes

Christmas is the busiest time of the year in the kitchen.

Just when you think you are all done, you remember something else.

And then when it is all over, you have the problem of deciding what on earth to do with the turkey again.

This column is a request for your favorite recipe for left over turkey. I've had a lot of people asking me, and I'm sure there are a lot of really great ideas floating around out there.

After the Christmas issue of this newspaper, the next one will not be published until January 8th, and most of the turkey should be finished by then. But if you have an idea, give me a call, and we'll save it for next year. My number is 472-4479.

The following recipe for ice-cream is quick, and good, and you can't have too many desserts at this time of year. The cranberry candles is really quite attractive at a buffet dinner.

CHRISTMAS ICE CREAM

- 1 cup mincemeat 1 cup whole cranberry sauce ½ cup broken nuts 1 quart vanilla ice-cream
- Combine mincemeat, cranberry sauce and nuts. Put ice-cream in chilled bowl, and cream with a wooden spoon until softened. Work quickly so it doesn't melt. Add fruit and nut mixture and stir just enough to give a marbled effect. Do not blend too throughly. Freeze. Leave out the cranberry and add rum or rum extract tor another flavor.

CRANBERRY CANDLES

- one lb can whole berry cranberry sauce
- 1 3 oz pkg orange jelly powder 1 cup boiling water

10

- 1 cup boiling water
  14 tsp. salt
  1 tsp lemon juice
  1/2 cup mayonnaise
  1 apple peel and diced
  1/4 cup chopped walnuts

Heat cranberry sauce and strain, setting berries aside. Dissolve jelly powder in hot juice and boiling water. Add salt and lemon juice. Chill until thickened enough to mound when dropped from a spoon. Beat in mayonnaise with rotary beater until light and fluffy. Fold in cranberries, fruit and nuts. Divide into eight 6 oz. fruit juice cans. Chill at least four hours. Unmould and garnish. For flame, out birthday candles in half, and insert in top of cranberry candles and light.

Mrs. Ken Cassidy was in charge of the meeting, which was opened with a Christmas carol, the Ode and the Mary Stewart Collect.

The roll call, "My Favorite Christmas Carol", was answered by 19 members and one visitor.

Plans were discussed on sending gifts to the sick and shut-ins of the community. Mrs. Arthur Holmes was in charge of the Christmas program. There were several readings, "Legend of Open House" by Mrs. McMurray; "A Boy's Christmas Complaint" by Roberta Sager; a poem "I Found Out" by Mrs. Arthur Holmes and "A Gift for the King" by Mrs. Carl Gordon.

These were followed by a jumbled word contest taken from the poem "The Night Before Christmas."

There was a Christmas gift exchange and the meeting was closed with the Queen. Lunch was served by the hostess and her in grades 6,7 and 8 sang three Christmas song selections for the program. Under the direction and piano accompaniment of Mr. Murphy, the principal of Madoc public school, the children sang "Go Tell It On The Mountain"; "Three Shepherds Came"; and "Mary's Little Boy Child". At Madoc township school, children in grades 4,5 and 6 sang two songs, "Sweet Jesus In A Manger" and "Bring A Torch. Jeanette Isabella" in French. Playing the piano for the choir was Mrs. Rowe of Tweed. Mr. Mowat, the school principal, stepped in at the last moment to conduct the 30 member choir this week, when the regular director, Mrs. Molyneaux, was called out of town.

SURVEY SHOWS....

Almost half have no decay

Almost half the kindergarten to grade three students attending Madoc Public School have no decay in their teeth.

But 15 per cent have an urgent need to see a dentist, and a whooping 36 per cent have poor oral hygiene.

The figures have been released by Dr. Dennis A. Warrick, director of dental services, for the Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit.

He notes that the benefits of fluoridation of water are plainly evident in comparing the percentage of students who have "no decay" in Picton and Belleville, which have fluoridation, with that of Trenton, which does not have fluoridation.

Belleville Schools showed 60 per cent of 121 students examined with no decay and Picton Schools, 53 per cent of 256 students examined, with no decay.

The Trenton survey, on the other hand, showed only 44 pers cent of 1 176 students.

Other area schools broke down as follows:

Gilmour - Sixteen per cent had poor oral

The overall picture is encouraging,

"Compare Northumberland County 1970-71, only 35 per cent of K-3 students had no decay," notes Dr. Warrick.
"However, the overall dental treatment

REACH AGREEMENT

agreement has been reached even the Central Ontario group of ist Councils, and the Ontario istry of Industry and Tourism, wing more than one year of stations with the Ontario Government.

Under the agreement, individual tourist councils such as Highlands of Hastings will retain their identity and at the same time earn better promotional support from the government. In return, the Central Ontario group - namely Great Pine Ridge, Bay of Quinte, Haliburton Highlands, Highlands of Hastings, Lake Simcoe, Land O Lakes and Kawartha Lakes, will speed up their joint promotional activities. The councils will co-operate on administration.

President V. A. McMurray, High-lands of Hastings Tourist Council, emphasizes that this accelerated co-operation will help the whole region. For instance, he notes, more and better promotional material will be produced and distributed.

He stresses that, under the new tourism scheme, success of an individual area will now depend largely upon the amount of money raised by that local tourist council through county and municipal grants and individual memberships. The covernment will tie its financial help to the amount raised in the regions. We wish to emphasize that money raised in a given region will be spent solely for the benefit of that region.

For the purpose of administration, the Central Ontario Travel Association will be divided into three zones: The Highlands of Hastings and Land O Lakes will be in the east zone, the Kawartha Lakes and Haliburton Highlands in the porth zone and the Highlands in the north zone and the Great Pine Ridge, Bay of Quinte and Lake Simcoe in the South Zone.

Locally, the Highlands of Hastings now receives some $5,480,000.00 annually from visitors. With increased local and government financing, this dollar income to area communities will continue to grow

Further education or not - 3 criteria

By GARNET PIGDEN Special Correspondent

It is that time of year again when students in their final high school year are considering the advantages or disadvan-tages of further education.

Many ask themselves "Why continue to go to school" or "Will I succeed if I do attempt to further my knowledge at a university or college?"

Many students look back over their 12 or 13 years of enforced education with no desire to continue the torture into three or four more years after high school.

Whether or not a student is "college material" will depend on three major things. The student planning to attend institutions of higher education should a - a high degree of reading ability b - a specific intellectual interest in something and c - the maturity to learn by himself and direct himself.

For a person to possess a high degree of reading ability he must have the capacity or knack for learning quickly and effectively out of books.

This may not be the best way to obtain knowledge, but the existing method of learning in universities is almost exclusively bookish. Reading speed has an obvious direct bearing on success in college work. The more rapidly a reader to the transfer of the succession reads, the more effectively he grasps and retains.

The possession of a full and accurate vocabulary is a definite asset. Many potential scholars flunk out of university within the first year because of their inability to express themselves. Perhaps our present educational system is neglecting the basic skills of reading, writing and vocal expression.

The student in university will find himself flanked with dictionaries, encyclopedias, gazettes, maps and other reference material. He will have to be able to collect precise information by knowing how to obtain this material.

The second criteria is the intellectual how to obtain this material.

The second criteria is the intellectual interest in something. There seems to be no good reason why any student would proceed to advanced studies at the college level unless there is at least one subject that he wishes to learn more about. Understandably not everyone must specialize because there are a number of students with many intellectual interests who want to learn more about many things. These are excellent candidates for college. If no subject can be discovered college. If no subject can be discovered that is of interest to the student, and if there are topics of interest but not taught in college, then that student should not attend.

The third criterion is indeed the most important for without it the potential scholar would not succeed at university even though he might possess the other two. It is MATURITY. The degree of two. It is MATURITY. The degree of self-mastery which enables him to manage his spending money, choose friends wisely, set his priorities (home work first - pleasure later) and he must respect the rights of others and work to maintain a high standard of excellence. It should be noted that Mom or Dad won't be around to bail him out of trouble and he won't have a teacher proding him into won't have a teacher proding him into studying instead of going to the movies. In university there is a great deal of free

In university there is a great deal of free time and a large number of activities are offered that are very pleasing to human nature. It has been argued that during our high school years we are pampered too much thus being unable to adapt to the freedom experienced at colleges and universities. Maybe our public schools and high schools should be revised so that students aren't as dependent upon their teachers as they are now.

There are many fine palces of education for some students, but for a considerable majority they are very bad places. They offer, to some, worthwhile opportunities for mental and moral development; and to others they offer virtually nothing and others they offer virtually nothing and much worse, lead some into frustration and discouragement.

Today, skilled and adequate background in such basic courses as English and Math are required for entry into most post-secondary school institutions. Thus students who drop out of these courses, at the first opportunity, or sign of difficulty, may seriously jeopardize their educational future.

It has been stated that the true output of an education can be best judged by the quality of the human relationships which it fosters. At university or college which we, the graduates, may plan to attend, we hope to find the sort of educational climate which will enable us to develop our relationships and personalities to a higher

As we see it....

The vote shows we care

Its little wonder residents of the Village of Madoc appear to be walking around town today with their chest stuck out a little bit farther than usual.

Residents showed they are indeed concerned about the future of their village in trooping to the polls in fine fashlon Monday to elect one representative to their five-man council.

Monday to elect one representative to their five-man council.

Residents could have found every excuse in the book to stay away - the weather was far from ideal, in fact it was downright rotten. And only one of the five council seats was at stake, and there was no major issue. [In fact, it would have been hard to even find a minor issue.]

But residents took the message of this newspaper to heart; they threw off their apathetic stance of the first round of nominations, and when round two came up, they saw to it four men were nominated to contest the remaining seat.

And they got behind the foursome, despite the elements, with 532 people casting countable ballots, and a handful of others casting ones that couldn't be counted.

[Some people voted for more than one candidate, which of course, spoiled their ballot].

All in all it was a good round of democracy

Each of the candidates put forth a good effort in the campaign, and each had their own following.

Congratulations to Tom Deline on his victory. He said the people of Madoc needed a younger man on council, and his victory shows many thought him right. We wish him every success as he joins fellow councillors in strengthening our village's position as the "heart of Hastings County."

We also congratulate the three that lost. They gave it their best, and none has anything to be ashamed of. Mr. Goulah, who came last, was only 65 votes behind the winner and that represents a close

All three should try it again next time.

The headlines speak of an imminent calamity. But for many, the tragedy alreadyh is all too real. "Anguish of the hungry is spreading across India," said the New York Times the other day. In London, speaking on the eve of the Rome Food Conference, professor George Allen of the University of Aberdeen warned of a food crisis that is threatening to engulf the poorest of the world's nations. India, Professor Allen believes, could be facing a famine on a scale of the 194 Bengal disaster when 2,500,000 died of starvation.

Amid all this gloom there was at least one ray of hope. It seems that U.S. policymakers have reached general agreement on the need to set up the world's first international grain stockpile. Initially, it will be in the range of 30 million to 60 million tons, and its prime aim would be to ensure stable prices, and to have enough food on hand to cope with emergency situations in needy lands.

The concept of a kind of World Food Bank has been debated for years, and has the support of many Canadians. For one thing, if taken seriously, it should take politics right out of food aid. The purpose of the stockpile is to feed the hungry, no matter who or where they are.

who or where they are.

There will be many problems, not the least of which will be storage space. Some argue it will be difficult to store the grain in many of the poorer nations because they do not have the facilities. What is more, much poorer in the least to peets and verning or simply.

not have the tacilities. What is more, much grain is lost to pests and vermin, or simply rots, owing to inadequate storage.

Then one can ask whether even 60 million tons is enough for an emergency in a world of four billion people. Certainly a much larger food stockpile will be needed in due course. At least a beginning has been made.

Ontario Government studying creation of tribunal

The Ontario Government is seriously studying creation of a special tribunal with sweeping powers to control strikes not in the public interest, according to Labor Minister John MacBeth.

Minister John MacBeth.

"The idea is to remove these very important decisions from the political arena -- to gain decisions that cannot be charges with bias." The tribunal would be separate from the Ontario Labor Relations Board.

'I can't say much about it because it is still under study -- there could be many changes in the concept," said the labor

The tribunal would be part of a complete revision of Ontario's Labor Relations Act The association has threatened to go out on an illegal strike in January if their demands are not met by the government.

With the Ontario Civil Service Association running a $250,000 advertising and public relations campaign aimed at Premier Davis by the same Montreal firm that handles the NDP party's political campaigns, the provincial government has cause to be concerned.

One of the sticky questions needing consideration is the increasing frequency of illegal strikes -- sometimes by groups who don't even have the legal right to strike strike.

It was the eve of Friday the 13th for Madoc Merchants and Campbellford Flyers as they played Thursday night here in Madoc. Unfortunately the bad luck fell on our Merchants as they lost to Campbellford, 8-1.
Madoc took an early lead at the 1:45 mark of the first period when Gene Francis connected on a pass from Gord Donaldson. But that lead was short-lived as six minutes later Don Potts tied it up for Campbellford.

Just any potting soil is not good enough for your houseplants. They deserve the best - a soil full of nutrients, with good drainage, and free of weeds and disease organisms.

Population control is a losing battle

Nothing can be as discouraging as to give long speeches on the need for population control to a conference whose delegates know that, for the time being at least, they are fighting a losing battle. Yet that is what occurred at the August World Population Congress held in Bucharest,

Some delegates implored. Others warned. Quite a number didn't turn up because inflation had eaten into travel budgets. And none who came had a meaningful solution to what is probably the most pressing problem in the world today.

Unless the people in poorer lands tend to follow the example of more affluent nations, where young people are beginning merely to replace themselves by having no more than two children in many cases, future generations face a grim prospect.

The recent floods in Bangladesh, for instance, which covered almost half the country and which took thousands of lives, are a form of population control that was accepted by humanity for centuries. If the land had to support too many souls, vast numbers starved to death, or died of thirst, or were killed and drowned in storms and floods. Mankind, with its new technology, floods. Mankind, with its new technology, today can overcome the cruelties of nature on most occasions.

But will we conquer nature if we grow from today's figure of 4 billion to 8 billion by early next century? Will the massive international relief operations that were mounted in drought-stricken Ethiopia or flooded Bangladesh be enough? Will the hundreds of millions of unemployed wandering the world by the year 2,000 be content with degradation and deprivation? Clearly, one must answer NO to these questions. And therefore daily the need to search for meaningful solutions to the population puzzle becomes more urgent.

NOTICE

Regarding parking vehicles Village streets during winter months.

In order to properly snow plow the streets it is necessary that no overnight parking be allowed on the streets. Offending vehicles will be towed away at the owners expense.

The co-operation of the public is requested at all times during storm periods to keep parked vehicles from interfering with the snow plows.

The Village forces are going to attempt to keep the sidewalks clean this winter. This too, will require the co-operation of the public and those doing custom snowplowing, to avoid pushing snow and sluch on to the walks, where it would freeze and stop the snow blower.

Arrangements can be made by individuals or places of business at the Village office to have accumulated snow on private property removed by the Village forces, at the time when snow is being taken from the streets. Charges in this case will be based on cost.

All-out effort to topple Davis?

By DON FREDERICKS Toronto Sun Syndicate

The Civil Service Association of Ontario says a "political alliance" of most sectors of the province's labor movement may be created in an all-out effort to topple the government.

Davis government.

Jack Norman, CSAO general manager, disgruntled at what he called "window dressing" changes to the Crown Employees Collective Bargaining Act put forth by the government, said a political alliance of labor organizations worked in British Columbia to bring down the Bennett covernment.

"It's been done before and we can do the same in this province," he said.

"The response has been excellent." It's in the mill - certainly it's in the mill."

Meanwhile, the CSAO indicated for the first time that it is ready to reduce its demand for a 61.5 per cent increase - a deman the civil servants have stuck with since negotiations began with the government and the 20,000 or so of its members in the operational services.

The CSAO, which represents a total of about 60,000 civil servants, has threatened an illegal strike January 1 if it doesn't get a satisfactory wage settlement.

Norman said they decided to lower their wage demand because the government "finally showed good faith" when it offered a one-year contract (instead of two) with about a 20 per cent wage increase for most of those in operational services. "It's a positive offer and it demonstrates that the government is willing to negotiate seriously," he said. "We must now react in a similar fashion. The time has come to more off the 61 per cent demand and come in a similar fashion. The time has come to move off the 61 per cent demand and come down to a much more realistic figure." Norman said that in his opinion there will be no strike if the wage issue is settled even though the issue of changes in the bargaining act may be left outstanding. "If we can settle the wage issue, we're accomplishing a colossal task because we would have averted a major stike in this province."

The labor alliance against Davis would most certainly proceed if the CSAO doesn't get the major concessions it wants in the get the major concessions it wants in the bargaining act. The key change would be the free choice between voluntary arbitration and the legal right to strike. But Eric Winkler, the minister who deals with civil servants, said that the government has no intention to allow the CSAO that

Norman said a labor alliance in the political field would not back a particular political party but rather it would back any candidate who agrees that the civil servants should be entitled to the same bargaining rights as others in the labor movement.

Twenty-five studnets can attend Winter Carnival

This year 25 senior students from Centre Hastings Secondary School will have the chance to spend four days at the Quebec Winter Carnival held in Quebec City.

The trip will take place from Sunday, Feb. 9 to Wednesday, Feb. 12. The supervisor accompanying the students will be Mr. D.J. Brazeau, the head of the Language Department.

will be Mr. D.J. Brazeau, the head of the Language Department.

The students are scheduled to see the Palais de Glace, the Chateau plus many of the historic sites in Quebec. The students will be staying in a small hotel within walking distance of the carnival itself. This trip is a tremendous opportunity for students to excercise their powers of expression in the French language and to see the intriguing city of Quebec. It is noped that this will become an annual event.

Convincing score

The IAPE Safety Quiz competition was held at Bayside Secondary School December 12. Our team of Tony Fondgya Mark Thompson, Doug Spencer, Jan Graham and Roy Spannabauer defeated the team from Centennial by a convincing score in the first round. In the second round they defeated the team from Bayside in a very close contest.

The CHSS team will now go on to compete with Prince Edward Collegiate Institute for the Hastings Prince Edward District Championship. Prince Edward Collegiate has had an impressive record in past years in its knowledge of accident prevention and has usually won the championship for this area. However, this year we have produced a team that is capable of capturing the title and we wish them the best of luck as they take on PECI on January 15 at the Belleville Legion.

Language laboratory

The installation of the language laboratory is in the final stages of its completion and should be ready for use by January 6. The laboratory will provide better opportunities to the student for improved pronuciation, speed and comprehension. Many oral lessons will be available on tape for students who have missed work through illness or who require remedial work.

Mrs. Laura Smith, teacher of Latin and Grade 9 French, will be retiring December 31 after 15 years of service in Hastings County. Mrs. Smith has made great contributions to the Language Department and to the school Best wishes are extended to Mrs. Smith in her retirement.

retirement.
Mrs. J. Beer will replace Mrs. Smith with her duties beginning January 6. Another new teacher to the Language Department will be Mrs. Cox of Belleville. She will be replacing Mrs. M. McKeough who has been granted a six month leave of absence.

Edge Centennial

In inter-scholastic curling action last week the Centurion Boys Team edged the Centennial Boys Curling Team by the narrow margin of 9-8. The Centurion Girls trounced their Centennial counterparts by the score of 9-1.

On December 13, our Boys Curling team lost to the Quinte Boys 10-2. It would appear that our Girls Team is on their way to another successful year. With their win over Centennial, our girls have completed the first half of the season undefeated.

Fare well

The Centurion Wrestling Team participated in the first league tournament of the season at Napanee on Thursday, Dec. 12. The CHSS grapplers fared well against teams from Napanee, Picton and Centennial High Schools. Mike Young at 98 lbs. and Dave Twiddy in the 106 lb. class each won two matches. Earl MacKnight at 136 lbs., Harvey Mumby at 148 and Neil MacLean at 157 lbs. rounded out the scoring by winning one match each.

Canadian studies

The Social Studies Department of CHSS has initiated in its Year 1 Canadian Studies Course (HCS101) a mastery possess in order to carry out an investigation in social studies. The skills investigation in social studies. The skills have been arranged in a teaching sequence and through built-in remedial periods and will be taught and practised until they are mastered. Mastery will be represented by a grade of 70. For those students who achieve early mastery of the skills there will be a project valued at 30 marks, applying these skills of Social Studies investigation. At the end of the 1974-75 school year, the teachers will evaluate the project to determine whether or not this Mastery Learning Project will be continued.

Yule assembly

This year's Christmas Assembly will be one of the most entertaining assemblies ever held at Centre Hastings Secondary School. The School Spirit Club is boasting a majority of the acts which include two new groups: J. Walker and the Pedestrians, and Denise Do and the Don'ts. These two new groups will be making spotlighting performances; they might be described as rejects from the 50's but are certain to be entertaining in the 70's. There will be some acts which have

There will be some acts which have entertained us before at the Christmas Assembly. Making a return engagement will be the Meehan Sisters, Joan Donaldson, and the Teacher's Group will be taking care of the musical part of the show.

Back by popular demand are the Pointless Sisters and Chuck Mongolis who were highlights from previous assemblies. The School Band will play a few Christmas carols to create an atmosphere that will enable the whole school body to get in the yuletide mood.

This year the whole cast will be doing a

This year the whole cast will be doing a second performance for the senior citizens groups from the surrounding areas.

Presently, the cast is working and rehearsing diligently in preparation for Friday's assemblies. There has been a great deal of effort devoted to this year's performances and it is hoped that this presentation will be well attended and annereciated.

The Journey To Bethlehem

And it came to pass in those days, that there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus, that all the world should be taxed.

(And this taxing was first made when Cyrenius was governor of Syria.)

And all went to be taxed, every one into his own city.

And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judeea, unto the city of David, which is called Bethlehem: (because he was of the house and lineage of David:)

To be taxed with Mary his espoused wife, being great with child.

And so it was, that, while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered.

TOUGH NEW LAWS

Snowmobiles now; boats next?

By DON FREDERICKS Toronto Sun Syndicate

Tough new legislation aimed at reducing snowmobile accidents has been introduced in the Ontario Legislature.

It calls for the testing of drivers and provision of hefty fines for violations of regulations.

provision of hefty fines for violations of regulations.

The bill would also set the minimum age for driving snowmobiles on public trails at 12 years and would make helmets compulsory.

Age restrictions would also ban drivers under 16 from all highways and those under 14 from crossing highways.

The bill would ban snowmobiles from all serviced roads, except those where drivers were specifically permitted under bylaws passed by municipalities.

Among new proposals are those to require dealers to register snowmobiles within six days of sale and owners to attach signs showing registration numbers on both sides of machines.

The bill would ban snowmobiles from all provincial highways and secondary roads except those exempted by regulations, and require drivers to cross serviced roads at a right angle.

except those exempted by regulations, and require drivers to cross serviced roads at a right angle.

Driving permits would be issued for those over 12 years subject to examination set down by regulations.

The bill would also require insurance for all drivers on public trails and highways and require drivers to produce evidence of insurance on request of police or conservation officer.

Penalty for failing to produce proof of insurance would be a maximum fine of $500.

Speed limits for snowmobiles in 30-mile-an-hour zones or parks would be set at 15 miles an hour. On public trails or traffic zones greater than 30 miles an hour, snowmobiles would be restricted to 30 iles an hour.

However, municipalities would be allowed to regulate speeds greater or lower than those set down in areas under their jurisdiction. Mufflers would be compul-

Last year there were 127 deaths from snowmobile accidents across the country with 41 of them in Ontario.

These strong measures make good sense on the part of the government. But, now that there are signs of snowmobile control, isn't it time someone took a close look into boating where similar, and sometimes worse problems occur.

A bright and wonderful time

By BOB TROTTER

Christmas has always been a bright and wonderful time around our house.

These happy celebrations, I'm sure, began with the Depression days when my brother and sisters were young and really knew little about crass commercialism and how much it cost to make those happy times.

We were born and raised in a small town in central Ontario, 80 miles away from the big city lights of Tranna. The homestead has changed drastically over the years. At one time, in my childhood, it had one of those crazy wraparound verandahs that sprawled around three sides of the house. That verandah had as many dips and dives as a pie crust along the floor and the ceiling.

I suppose it would be there yet except that it got too unsafe for human habitation.

During the Christmas season each year it took on a new elegance even though it was collapsing under the ravages of time. It had fancy frescoes around the eave with matching elbows fastened to the posts. The elbows and eaves would always be decorated with pine and spruce boughs and hung with colored tinsel the children saved throughout the year.

This was long before the days when everyone lived better electrically. Colored lights were rare. Only a few of the snobs on Bond Street could afford that nonsense in those days.

It was a family ritual to head for the evergreen bush south

It was a family ritual to head for the evergreen bush south of town to get the Christmas tree. My father had a standing agreement with the man who owned the bush. Dad was a grower for 40 years. He grew flowers commercially and had a hand in planting flower beds around many gravestones in the local cemetery. The agreement was that hemy dad—would plant a small flower bed around the farmer's facility of the standard of the my dad—would plant a small flower bed around the farmler's family cemetery plot every spring in return for a free Christmas tree in December.

I think we were always one of the first families in town to have our tree up. With five kids, mom and dad would traipse out to the bush about the first week in December. We would be wrapped in macintosh jackets and "bum-freezers," as the shorter coats were known in those days.

DARN THOSE RABBITS!

I had a leather hat with ear-lugs and real goggles that could be lowered over my eyes when the wind blew cold.

I'm sure Dad had his eye on the tree long before we got there but he would make quite a ritual out of choosing the right one. Everybody had to agree on the tree before he would cut it down with a couple of deft strokes with a sharp axe. He originally came from a farming-and-lumberjacking family and surely knew how to handle an axe.

Detting up the tree was also a family ritual. Once again

Putting up the tree was also a family ritual. Once again, none of your fancy electric lights: just plain popcorn strings, colored paper, tinsel and few store-bought baubles. Somehow, those trees, as I recall now, shone just as bright as today's.

Of course, such times are impossible for everyone these days. Most of us have to buy a tree that has been cut for five or six weeks from a cluster of anemic looking specimens in a Jaycee or Scout lot. The fire prevention people keep telling us that artificial trees are less dangerous. The emotional environmentalists tell us how wasteful it is to keep cutting pine and spruce saplings just to be thrown out in a few weeks.

And the soaring inflation rates tell us how silly it is to spend five or 10 bucks for a real tree.

We haven't succumbed to the artificial tree yet. But I suppose it will come.

se it will come suppose it will come.

In any event, it is the spirit that counts. Which sounds trite and maybe a little old-fashioned in these days of undeclared wars, inflation, energy crises and dishonest politi-

But a few moments of reflection on the real meaning of Christmas, no matter what faith you are, brings a little glow of unselfishness even to the hardest of hearts.

Whether you think the Christ was only a man or the Son of God: whether you think He was simply a great philosopher or the voice of God; whether you think He was simply a great pailosopher or the voice of God; whether you think He was a great teacher or the spirit of God made manifest, at this time of year. His admonition to love one another is just as wonderful and clear today as it was almost 2,000 years ago.

Bless you at Christmas and throughout the year.

We've come up with at least three vinners in the Marmora and District Lions

Winners declared as of press time were

If you give plants for Christmas, surprise your friends by presenting something different, such as a mixed pan.

Consider arrangements particularly appropriate for Christmas - a single red poinsettia, surrounding by a ring of white chrysanthemums, for example.

Also effective would be a mixed pan that includes several kinds of foliage plants, or an ornamental pepper plant, asparagus

Angel tells shepherds of "Savior"

BETHLEHEM - Shepherds who claim a baby boy born in this Judean community today is the "Savior" say they were told of the birth, and its significance, by an angel. "We were in the fields watching our flocks," one of them said.

flocks," one of them said.
"All of a sudden, an angel appeared.
"It really scared us, and we were completely speechless.
"The angel said, 'Do not be afraid! For I am here with good news for you, which will bring great joy to all people. This very night in David's town your Savior was born. Christ the Lord! This is what will prove it to you: You will find a baby wrapped in cloths and lying in a manger."
"Then, suddenly, a great army of angels appeared. And they were singing. Singing praises to God.

appeared. And they were singing. Singing praises to God.

"Glory to God in the highest heaven! And peace on earth to men with whom he is pleased! they sang.
"After we regained our composure, we decided we had to get into Bethlehem as soon as we could to see the baby the angel had told us about.

"And here he is.
"Praise God. Praise God."

Mary admits shepherds right

BETHLEHEM - Mary, the mother of the baby that is being hailed here as "Savior", "King", "Christ", "Lord", etc., admitted today that the shepherds were right in their assessment of the birth.

She said an angel had appeared onto her some months before, and like the shepherds, she was at first afraid too. "But," Mary noted, "the angel said 'Peace be with you! The Lord's with you, and has greatly blessed you!"

"I was troubled by these words, and wondered what they meant.

"Then the angel said, 'Don't be afraid, Mary, for God has been gracious to you. You will become pregnant and give birth to a son, and you will name him Jesus. He will be great and be called the Son of the Most High God. The Lord God will make him a king, as his ancestor, David, was, and he will be the king of the descendants of Jacob forever; his kingdom will never end."

Mary said she told the angel that she was Mary said she told the anger that she was a virgin, and asked, "How could it be.

"The angel replied, 'The Holy Spirit will come on you, and God's power will rest upon you. For this reason the holy child will be called the Son of God. Remember your relative Elizabeth. It is said that she cannot have children; but she herself is six months pregnant, even through she is very old. For there is not a thing that God

As we see it...

Let's not forget the real Christmas

Today's front page tells the story of the first Christmas Day as it may have been told, had today's modern methods of communications been available. We devote our entire front page to the story because without Christ there would be no Christmas.

We would remind one and all, that while the Yuletide season is indeed a festive occasion, and a time for a variety of parties, get-togethers, etc., it is a time when we should all give thanks for the greatest gift of all - the Son of God!

Today's paper is the last of 1974. Our first edition in 1975 will be released Wednesday, January 8.

God bless each and every one throughout the Yuletide season and the new year that lies ahead.

People hail babe born in stable

BETHLEHEM, Judea - People here today are hailing a new born baby as a king. While early reports are rather sketchy, reliable sources say the child was born in a stable behind a hotel because his parents a Joseph and Mary from the town of Nazareth, in Galilee - couldn't find room in any of the community's hotels, tourist homes or private residences.

A bright star, said by astronomers to be a new one, shone brightly overhead.

Shenberds, who had been watching their

Shepherds, who had been watching their flocks during the night, arrived at the stable saying the baby was the "Savior - Christ the Lord."

They said they had been in the fields watching their flocks when a angel appeared before them, told them that the Savior had been born, in Bethlehem, and that they would find him wrapped in cloths in a manger.

It was the first indication there was anything unusual, or especially significant, about the birth from a public viewpoint.

But Mary later admitted to reporters that she had received prior knowledge - an angel had appeared unto her, and had fortold of the events that would take place.

By this time a crowd had gathered, and all were filled with wonder at the shepherds'

As the news spread, more and more people arrived to see the baby, and join the talk on what it all meant.

Joseph and Mary had come to Bethlehem to participate in the census ordered by Emperor Augustus. It calls for everyone to register themselves in the town in which register themselves in the town in which they were born.

"We came to Bethlehem because King David was born here, and I am a descendant of him," Joseph explained. Mary, he said, had made the trip by donkey and he had walked beside her.

"We looked all over for some sort of accommodation, but couldn't find any.

"People are here from all over, and I guess many of them were finding themselves without accommodations.

"Finally, I arrived at this hotel, and the manager was really sympathetic.
"I explained the condition of my wife, and he said he was sorry that there was no room available inside the hotel - even the lobby was full - but that we could use the stable if we wanted it.
"We were really glad to get it."

Bethlehem is a little city, and it does not take many people to crowd it; but, besides being the birthplace of Jesus, it is the birthplace of Israel's great barrior-king, David.

"When the thoughts of the civilized world turn to Bethlehem, many wonder how the people there keep this greatest religious holiday. Very few American children can visit the little city, yet a number of travelers from America and Europe come to the Holy Land every year. Travelers want to be among those who crowd the streets on Christmas Day.

The Church of the Nativity has been built in Bethlehem. It is because of this that Christians in the "City of the Nativity," rejoice and proclaim "peace on earth" and "good will toward men."

A procession of bishops, priests and people form in the square in front of the church. Each is dressed in his most gorgeous robe. Christmas Day in Bethlehem is not the Christmas Day we know; it is full of religious ceremonies, and when these are over young and old go back to their accustomed life. Christmas to them is much the same as any other day of the year.

Who would not be glad to spend a Christmas eve and day where He who made the glad day possible was born?

Bargaining in bad faith?

Despite the conciliatory moves by the Civil Service Association of Ontario Eric Winkler accused the organization of bargaining in bad faith.

Winkler, the cabinet minister responsible for dealings with the civil service, said the strategy of the CSAO "has been to use any device or excuse to delay the negotiations, in order to bring the province closer to their illegal strike deadline.

Opposition leader Robert Nixon and New Democratic Party leader Stephen Lewis immediately attacked Winkler's statement. Nixon said there was no purpose to the statement and all it would do is serve to aggravate an already touchy situation. And Lewis told the government to quit negotiating in public.

The CSAO represents 60,000 civil servants in the province and 20,000 o them, in the operational services.

Merry! Merry! Merry! Ring Christmas Bells

Ring Christmas Bells

Ringing around the world and across the ages, bells are a part of the traditions of Christmas.

Zurich, Switzerland, has long been recognized for beautiful bells. Every Christmas Eve, the Zurich bells ring out loud and clear, calling families to church. This same tradition is repeated in thousands of other cities, where chimes and bells ring out at midnight from the steeples and spires of churches.

Bells contribute to the sights as well as the sounds of the holiday season. They are a popular as well as the sounds of the holiday season. They are a popular decoration and are used as ornaments on trees.

It is said that bells inspired Clement C. Moore to write his famous poem, "A Visit from St. Nicholas." The inspiration came from listening to the merry fingle of bells on his horses' harness, as he drove along on a frosty winter night.

Economy is relatively strong

The Canadian economy is relatively strong when com-pared to those of other industrialized countries but still faces the prospect of continuing slow growth through much of 1975, the president of the Canadian Bankers' Association says.

J. Allan Boyle, executive vice-president and chief general manager of Toronto Dominion Bank, predicts in a year-end forecast that real output will advance by only 3 to four per cent during 1975, slightly lower than the gain of more than four per cent during 1974.

And he says inflation "will ease only marginally" with prices likely rising by nearly

"At a time when many nations face the prospect of declining output, substantially higher rates of unemployment, and critical balance of payments problems brought on by soaring energy costs, Canadians can take some comfort in the fact that our nation is unlikely to face such serious economic problems," Mr. Boyle says.

While difficulties, including limited growth and rising unemployment remain in the first half of 1975, Canadians can be confident that the underlying strength of our economy will see us through until the resumption of growth in the latter half of the year."

"Canada's relatively favorable prospects are based upon the continuation of rapid growth in business investment a major source of strength in recent years," Mr. Boyle says.

"In addition, the recent expansionary federal budget has sought to supplement in order to sustain a reasonable level of consumer demand and at the same time to offset some of the erosion of purchasing power caused by inflation. It has also provided some incentives to increase savings and to encourage continuing expansion and modernization of industrial capacity."

Mr. Boyle says the housing industry should benefit from anticipated general easing in interest rates and from the recent lowering of federal taxes on building materials.

Count on half a pound per person

Count on a half pound of whole turkey per serving, and that means about one pound per person if you want second helpings. Thus a 16-pound turkey will feed sixteen to twenty. But, if you want leftovers, buy a 20-pounder, which is a good size for taste and tenderness, too.

A 20-pound bird takes three to four days to defrost in the refrigerator, or about 12 hours in a sinkful of water. In either case, leave the turkey in its original plastic wrapper until it seems thawed. Then unwrap as soon as possible, and pull out the package of giblets from inside the turkey. Often these, are still frozen, indicating that the inside of the turkey is also still frozen. Finish thawing either at room temperature or, if you are not in a hurry, in the refrigerator. Keep thawed turkey under refrigeration, since it spoils more rapidly than fresh turkey, and plan to roast it within a day, or at most two days, of thawing.

POINSETTIAS

Blood from heart broken young girl...

Mexicans tell the story of blood falling on the ground from the broken heart of a young girl and from each drop, a poinsettia plant grew. The poinsettia, tra-ditional flower of the Christmas season, was known to the Mexi-cans as "Flor de la Noche Buena" — Flower of the Holy

The Yuletide emblem was discovered by Dr. Joel Roberts Poinsett, a native of Charleston, South Carolina, in 1928 while he was U.S. minister to Mexico and the Gower was given his name the flower was given his name.

Dr. Poinsett sent some cuttings of the plant to Robert Buist, a Philadelphia nurseryman, who specialized in collecting new plants. He named it "Euphorbia poinsettia" and later it was classified in botanical terms, Poinsettia pulcherrima.

The poinsettia has become one of the most popular Christmas emblems. Many people enjoy a gift of the potted plant and pic-tures of it appear on Christmas cards and ornamental wrappings.

It's not hard

Try make your own Yule wreath

You will need heavy-gauge wire for forming a circular frame or hoop, evergreen branches six or eight inches long, and light, flexible wire for fastening branches to the hoop.

When a hoop is completed, lay an evergreen branch face up on the left side of the hoop and wire the stem tightly to it. Then place the next branch so it overlaps the first, like shingles on a roof, and fasten again. Continue adding branches in a counter-clockwise direction until wreath is finished.

Decorate your cones, berries, nuts, seed pods, dried weeds, bows, bells or other ornaments. It is better not to use spray paint, glitter or artificial snow—your wreath will retain its natural look.

Christmas was proclaimed a holiday in Hawii in 1862 by King Kamehameha IV. That same year the first candle-light service was held. Today the Nativity scene is much in evidence in Hawaiian stores and at church and civic gatherings. Christmas carols have been sung with great en-thusiasm ever since 1823 when an American missionary, Reverend Hiram Bingham, translated "Joy to the World" for the Islanders.

Evergreens do not grow on the Islands but every year thousands of Christmas trees are transported by ship from the Pacific Northwest. Often the trees are painted white to simulate the snow-covered trees Hawaiian children have never seen. They are trimmed with balls and tinsel just as on the mainland, but Hawaiian leis made of shells, nuts and flowers are added,

The Hawaiian greeting for "Merry Christmas" is "Mele Kalikimaha!" But this is only one of the many forms of greeting, for the Hawaiian citizens are of many races and tongues. They live on their beloved Islands in harmony, and at no time is this more apparent than at the holy season of Christmas when all unite in celebrating the birth of the Infant Jesus.

The boys and girls of our fiftieth state can only imagine what a snowy Christmas would be like. They often eat their Christmas dinner out ofdoors. Afterward, they take part in sports and games.

Natural gas supplies will fall short of demand

Canada's natural gas supplies will fall short of domestic demand next year, said Ontario Energy Minister Darcy McKeough.

"The hard fact is that in Ontario there is a "The hard fact is that in Ontario there is a shortfall of supply relative to demand already," he said. "For the past several years, Omtario distributors have been unable to contract for all of their requirements from Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd."

McKeough said the situation, aggravated by inept government handling, "urgently requires" consideration of natural gas allocation in the marketplace.

"Our concern about the seriousness of the gas supply situation has heightened over recent months," he said. The federal particularly appropriate Christmas decorations.

The azalea, a shrubby evergreen, produces flowers in Christmassy shades of red, white and lavender, as well as pink. "It does best in an east window at a temperature of 55 to 60 degrees F," says Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food horticulturist, D.M. Sangster. He recommends that the plant receive a thorough watering at frequent intervals. From early December, poinsettias in a wide color range of red, dark red, pink, and white, should be available at your garden or flower center. Keep your poinsettia in a well-lighted spot at about 65 degree F. Its bottom leaves may yellow and fall if it is in a drafty location or if its roots are allowed to dry out.

Red or pink blooming Reiger begonias last for weeks in moist, well-drained soil. Keep them at 70 degree F during the day and not lower than 55 degree F at night. The cyclamen, with its red, white, pink, or mauve flowers, requires frequent watering and plenty of light. If it is kept at about 65 degree F at night and fertilized sparingly a few weeks after it has been purchased, it should last for several months after Christmas.

government's Petroleum Administration Act, recently re-introduced as Bill 32, is adding to the concern, he said. "The new bill will give the federal government the authority to seek federal-provincial agreement on natural gas prices and failing such agreement, to impose a

McKeough urged the board to consider three other measures:

Curtailment of existing level of natural gas exports to the United States.

- Short-term expansion of production avexisting fields.

pioneer style Christmas

Touch of past at Black Creek Pioneer Village

TORONTO - Black Creek Pioneer Village recaptures the spirit of Christmases of early Ontario.

the spirit of Christmases of early Ontario.

From November 23rd to January 5th, Village staff demonstrate how settlers, prior to Confederation, prepared and observed the Yule. The Village houses display the simple decorations of the period—wreaths of evergreen boughs, garlands of cranberries and popcorn and the traditional kissing balls. The kitchens are filled with the aromas of freshly baked fancy breads, cakes, mincemeat and puddings.

For the early settlers, Christmas, in addition to being a religious event, was a welcomed break in an otherwise busy and spartan life style.

a welcomed break in an otherwise busy and spartan life style.

The settlers observed Christmas in many different ways. For some it was strictly a holy occasion — a time to praise the Nativity. For others it was a time to visit with friends and make merry. The homes at Black Creek are decorated to reflect these traditions and rituals as well as the ethnic origins and degree of prosperity of the original householders.

The earliest home, Daniel Stong's first house, built in 1816, is representative of Pennsylvania German life. Decorations are simple. A small evergreen, decorated with dyed fleece and apples, is found in the kitchen with a few homemade presents — warm mittens, socks and small toys — beneath the tree. Christmas dinner is plain but included some special treats. Here visitors will see demonstrations of open hearth cooking.

The second Daniel Stong house was built in 1832 and reflects the improved prosperity of the household.

ets the improved erity of the household.

Members of the Evangelic Church, they didn't believe in frivolity. The holiday celebration was still a family affair. The traditional evergreen tree contains more elaborate decorations fancy cut cookies and garlands of popcorn and cranberries. A few token presents, which would have been bought at the local store, have been added to the list of homemade gifts. In place of Christmas stockings, plates would have been filled with fruits, nuts and cookies set out on Christmas Eve for the children.

cookies set out on Christmas Eve for the children.

At Half Way House, an 1850 inn, a centrepiece on the dining room table, bowls of nuts and fruits and a kissing ball in the hall recalls the welcome extended to travellers.

The Catholic background of the Daniel Flynns' is reflected in the small creche of straw and the lighted candle in the parlor window. Inexpensive toys were for the children along with embroidery wool for the lady of the house.

Burwick House, with its lavish swags of evergreen and berries, indicate the British background and prosperity of the original householders, Gifts are more novel and in some instances quite elegant. They would have come from the larger shops of Toronto. Food preparations are elaborate with cakes made of spices, and candled and imported fruits – dates, figs, oranges and lemons graced the family table.

The Mackenzie Home has been decorated to reflect the 1867 period. Christmas strees were becoming increasingly popular. There is a combination of homemade and store bought decorations on the Christmas tree as well as store bought gifts. By the mid 1850's the Santa Claus tradition was observed and a stocking has been hung from the bed. Special Christmas treats are displayed in the kitchen, including almond paste fashioned into fruit shapes.

The pulpit of Fisherville Church is decorated with cedar boughs. Carolers stroll the Village streets singing selections of carols between 2:00 p.m. and 4:00 p.m. on weekends.

The Village is open weekdays from 9:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. and on weekends from 10:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The Village will be closed Christmas Day and New Year's Day only

THE PROPRIETOR of Laskay Emporium arranges a display of Christmas wares in the store's window.

Pope to open door sealed 25 years ago

A quarter century ago a door was sealed at the entrance to St. Peter's Basilica in Rome. This Christmas Eve, Pope Paul VI will unseal it and enter the Basilica to inaugurate the Roman Catholic Church's Holv Year_1975.

inaugurate the Roman Catholic Church's Holv Year, 1975.

Already pilgrims are beginning to pour into Rome for this celebration. During the last Holy Year in 1950, a few thousand were able to participate via local television in Rome itself. In 1925 there was only limited radio coverage internationally.

But this Christmas Eve, for the first time, viewers around the world will see the event close-up on television via satellite. Canadians will watch it on a special edition of Meeting Place introduced by Donald Henderson on CBC-TV at 11:30 p.m. Dec. 24. (Meeting Place is a series of Canadians at worship, regularly scheduled on Sundays at 11 a.m.)

Following the ceremony, cameras will follow the Pope into the Basilica as he celebrates the Christmas Mass. The broadcast will be directed by Franco Zeffirelli, director of theatre, opera, and such films as Romeo and Juliet.

The first Holy Year was proclaimed in 1300 A.D. by Pope Boniface VIII, based on the Old Testament Jubilee year. He hoped that Christians who otherwise would crusade to the sepulchre of Christ in Jerusalem would seek instead the tombs of the apostles in Rome, and receive a plenary indulgence. This year six million or more pilgrims are expected to visit Rome. Their theme will be renewal and reconciliation.

75 a year of confrontation

By DAVID ARCHER President, Ontario Federation of Labor

One doesn't require any gift of prophecy to predict that the year 1975 will be a year of confrontation. The political leaders at both Queens Park and Ottawa must be aware that the anger of aroused citizens and workers will not be deflected by the platitudes and placebos they have offered in place of the action required to correct the social injustices in this province and this country.

Inflation is no longer a distant peril. It permeates every part of our economy and it has raised the spectre of an actual starvation level of subsistence among those least able to cope with the problem the old, the infirm, the working poor and the unemployed.

the old, the infirm, the working the unemployed.

In the past year we have watched the growing frustration and anger of those most affected by an uncontrolled economy and the indifferent beauracracy - the workers of this province. While the most affected by an uncontrolled economy and the indifferent beauracracy - the workers of this province. While the steelworkers, the auto builders, the craftsmen, printers and - yes, the teachers and civil servants, read accounts in the press of the day by day erosion of their buying power, often on the same page they saw columns of figures that demonstrated the unconscionable rise in corporate profits. The rip-off by these huge multi-national corporations was best described by David Lewis in his election campaign, but for those who would deny. Mr. Lewis' charges, the documentation of exhorbitant profits and usurious interest rates is readily available in the published reports of the business year.

If, as some claim, profits make the wheels of industry go round, then those wheels must be spinning at an alarming rate. Yet we do not see this tremendous activity reflected in the employment rate. While prices go up - so does the unemployment total.

If any final proof was required of the social inequity of inflated prices and profits, it was the action of many large employers who agreed to open contracts early for negotiations or who unilaterally granted their employees a lump sum cost of living bonus.

But Cola clauses will only maintain purchasing power - not improve it. And a

Many people cannot look forward to happy reunions with their families at Christmas. These are the inmates of prisons, the elderly in nursing homes, the sick in hospitals and other institutions which The Salvation Army visits every Christmas to make sure that those who are so often forgotten, are remembered on this special day.

healthy majority of Ontario workers - in unions and out of them - must improve the benefits they receive for their labour. The example of the few employers who did recognize the inflation problem has had little effect on the thinking of those with the power to grant these improvements. In recent months we have seen a provincial arbitration board oring in an award that was actually less than the minimum wage.

In 1975 we of the trade union movement must be prepared for confrontation if we are to improve the lot of the working people of this province. And we must be prepared to accept responsibility to ensure that those not protected by a union are not abandoned in this fight for social justice. The people on fixed incomes, old justice. The people on fixed incomes, old age pensions, those working in unorganized plants, the working poor, are our natural allies.

In 1975, we of the trade union movement could be instrumental in electing a government to Queen's Park that will respond to the needs of the citizens of this province. This I would suggest is our province. This, I would suggest, is our ultimate responsibility.

Village of Madoc is the one known as the Seymour Home.

Built by Uriah Seymour for his son Frederick, plans for the home were started about 1874, and actual construction got underway around 1875.

It was completed about 1878.

The Seymours operated an iron foundry and obtained the ore in Madoc Township.

The plans for the house came from Heidelburg, Germany, where Frederick attended the University and received his Ph. D. degree. He saw a house the same as the one built here, and in falling in love with it, obtained the plans for same.

The grounds originally consisted of 6½ acres of land, and along with the stone house, a carriage barn was erected, as was a double tennis court and the iron foundry.

The finished basement consists of three large rooms, plus a wine cellar, vault and a brick cistern.

brick cistern.

The main floor and second floor consist of 10 rooms as well as two bathrooms, one up and one down. The floors are of pine, and in the attic or third floor, a projection booth was built to show lantern slides.

The chimneys are self supporting from the footings in the basement and have six fireplaces attached to them throughout the house.

A slate roof and copper gutters keep the weather out. In 1939, the first complete oil furnace and humidifier was installed and the humidifier used 20 gallons of water per

Mr. Frederick Seymour married Helen Josephine Wood, the daughter of Mr. A.F. Wood, who at one time was reeve of the Township of Madoc, and the Warden of Hastings.

Mr. Fred Seymour passed away in 1910 and his wife lived in the house until 1937 when Mr. Clute Foster who ran for member of parliament purchased it and was the owner until 1944.

Dr. F.J. Nickle, who at one time attended school in Madoc during the early 1900's would walk by the house admiring it and wishing to own it. He purchased it in 1944 and unfortunately passed away only four months later.

Mr. W.J. Syman then purchased the home and in turn sold it to Mr. John Atkinson. Other owners of the home include Mr. Douglas Master, Frank Melanson, Mr. Victor Gallo and finally the present owner, Mr. Sony Osborne.

As the cue lights change from green to yellow, the reels on the video-tape machine start winding. The studio is hushed and expectant, waiting for the technical director to give the signal to start. With these words, the filming of another television program begins. Recorded on video-tape, it will be beamed to Madoc viewers on CHAN channel 4, during a regular Sunday night broadcast several weeks later.

Channel 4 is community television, produced for and by the residents of Madoc. Programs are geared to the village of Madoc, and the viewers are an exclusive group—those who are on the cable television hook-up of Hastings Cable-Vision.

"Our job is to appeal to a minority. We don't try to put on entertainment, but feature and promote local talent, local news, and local events", says Gordon Pigden, co-owner of Hastings Cable-

Some of the community shows that have been televised showed children from the public school singing, a Halloween party with the senior citizens, and a municipal nomination meeting.

The custom today of giving a kiss of love or peace beneath the mistletoe, although a relatively modern one, is derived from the fact that down through the centuries the mistletoe has been recognized throughout the whole world as a symbol of lasting peace.

peace.
Ancient Europeans considered the mistletoe a magical medicine. They carried it about with them for health and luck, and believed it a cure for ulcers and epilepsy as well as a charm promoting fertility.

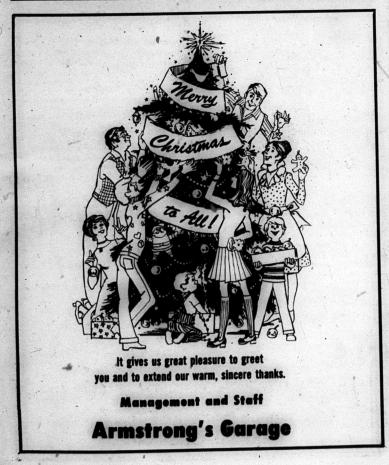

Mistletoe traditions are said to have begun with the ancient Druids. They attributed great power to the plant. It was supposed to prevent disease and keep away witches. Mistletoe means "all heal."

Hark - The Herald Angels sing
We may have frozen feet by spring.
This has been quite a hectic year
The next one may be worse, I fear
The Jews and Arabs locked in hate
The scandal of the Watergate
So many problems still unsolved
We'll be long gone when they're resolved.

The unemployment fund is broke It's time the taxpayers woke And asked those guys in Ottawa Just what they were elected for Twenty billion bucks they shot A thousand bucks per head - for what?

Illegal immigrants from Jamaica Bronchitis and bad colds will shake ya. When January chills your blood Montego Bay will sure look good.

No oil required to stay alive They went by dog team and canoe And next summer so may you When they were cold, they chopped up dogs.

The thought of that may give you pain
We may come back to it again.

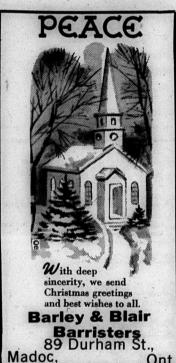

Alberta gas and Arab oil Cost more to make the kettle boil If all we're threatened with does befall It may not even boil at all.

The High school teachers say they quit Maybe the proper end of it. Then teachers and the students too Can go on Welfare it is true
If no-one's learning anyway
It will be cheaper far that way.

The man who works heavily taxed Resents the bum, - who's so relaxed But still they come, from every shore To raise our taxes, more and more Some day we'll all quit what we're doing And see how fast things go to ruin There is no reason why a worker Should have to pay to feed a shirker As we approach the Christmas season We gradually lose our reason To the bums all I wish good cheer That's only for the current year.

The Holly and the Ivy, When they are both fully

When they are both fully grown
Of all the trees are in the wood,
The Holly bears the crown.
O the rising of the sun,
And the running of the deer,
The playing of the merry organ,
Sweet singing of the choir.
The Holly bears a blossom
As white as any flower;
And Mary bore sweet Jesus
Christ
To be our sweet Saviour

To be our sweet Saviour.
The Holly bears a berry
As red as any blood;
And Mary bore sweet Jesus
Christ

Christ
To do poor sinners good.
The Holly bears a prickle
As sharp as any thorn;
And Mary bore sweet Jesus
Christ
On Christmas in the morn.
The Holly bears a bark
As bitter as any gall;
And Mary bore sweet Jesus
Christ......

Christ......

For to redeem us all.

The Holly and the Ivy

Now both are full well grown:

Of all the trees are in the wood

The Holly bears the crown.

Keep Fire

In Its Place

at Christmas

A happy Christmas can change in a few moments into a family tragedy, warns Fire Chief Lindsay Empey, in homes where fire safety precautions are neglected. Such precautions should head the list of every sensible family's preparations for Christmas, he

The Fire Chief urges the public to exercise special care in the setting up and decoration of Christmas trees, and draws attention to the following important points:

. If plans call for a natural tree it should be bought fresh and green, and kept outdoors or in an unheated garage before being brought into the home for decorating. Then, one or two inches should be cut diagonally from the butt, and the tree should be set up with the butt in water which should be maintained above the level of the cut.

. Check strings of electric lights carefully for worn insulation, broken plugs or loose bulb connections. Only CSA-approved lighting sets and only non-flammable decorations should be used. Declare the tree a no-smoking area and keep matches out of the hands of children.

Do not allow discarded gift wrappings to accumulate under the tree. Dispose of them as soon as the gifts are opened. Even a green tree will burn if ignited by burning paper around the base.

.Set up the tree away from heat sources such as fireplaces, TV sets or radiators. Do not allow it to block access to doors or windows in the event of fire. Switch off tree lights at bedtime or when leaving the house.

Fire Chief Empey points out that tests have proved that the safest tree is a tree with its butt set in water. However, if a tree has dried out before it is set up, it cannot regain its safe moisture level. A dry tree can be ignited by a single match, to burn violently to a charred state in a few seconds.

Even artificial trees can be serious fire hazards. Metallic trees are conductors of electricity, and should not be decorated with strings of lights, but illuminated with floodldights. Some plastic trees, made from styrene materials, are flammable, unlike those made from Polyvinylchloride.

.All trees should be removed from the home as soon as possible after the Christmas celebrations.

Christmas time in Italy more of adult festival

Christmas in Italy is more a festival for grownups than for children. Families gather together on Christmas Eve and talk around the fireplace while they watch the "appo," the Christmas log throwing sparks up the chimney. Then they sit down to supper, the "cenone", there is no meat, for Christmas Eve is a fast day, but there are dishes prepared in every way imaginable. The meal ends just before midnight when all go to Mass.

Regarding parking vehicles on Village streets during winter months.

In order to properly snow plow the streets it is necessary that no overnight parking be allowed on the streets. Offending vehicles will be towed away at the owners expense.

The co-operation of the public is requested at all times during storm periods to keep parked vehicles from interfering with the snow plows.

The Village forces are going to attempt to keep the sidewalks clean this winter. This too, will require the co-operation of the public and those doing custom snowplowing, to avoid pushing snow and slush on to the walks, where it would freeze and stop the snow blower.

Arrangements can be made by individuals or places of business at the Village office to have accumulated snow on private property removed by the Village forces, at the time when snow is being taken from the streets. Charges in this case will be based on cost.

T. Burnside, Robert Kirkwood, Clerk-Treasurer. Chairman of Streets.

full-time doctor has been found for the clinic which previously operated under a PSI grant.

The new physician is Dr. George Neeson, formerly of Bramalea, a young general practioner with considerable experience.

Dr. Neeson will be living at Cloyne and continuing the Northbrook clinical practice of a group of doctors previously directed by Dr. Richard Milne of Kingston.

This is the fulfillment of a promise made this spring by Premier William Davis and the Honorable Frank Miller, Ontario Minister of Health, that a primary Health Centre system for this area be funded on a permanent basis by the Ministry.

At present, patients come to this clinic from as far away as Denbigh, Plevna, Harlowe, Arden, Kaladar, and Flinton. The nearest hospitals are located at Belleville, Napanee and Kingston - a distance of over 45 miles. The nearest doctors are at Tweed, 25 miles away.

A great deal of credit for this progress is due to Dr. J.S.W. Aldis, Director of Community Health Services, assisted by Maurice Lacerte, Project Officer for Eastern Ontario. Dr. W.J. Copeman, Senior Medical Consultant for underserviced areas, was instrumental in recruiting Dr. Neeson for Land O' Lakes.
